It is truly an honour for me to introduce the 2023 edition of the World Business Forum London. After three years, during which we were, unfortunately, unable to organise the Forum in-person, we are delighted to be returning this year on 7 June.

Many things have changed over the course of the past three years. Here at WOBI we have been working harder than ever to adapt to these changes, in order to continue to offer transformational ideas and knowledge to our clients and their organisations.

At this year's edition of the World Business Forum, we are excited to be joined by:

- Carly Fiorina - First woman ever to lead a Fortune 50 company
- Marshall Goldsmith - World's most influential leadership coach
- Rachel Botsman - Leading expert on trust in the modern world
- David Bell - Co-founder of Idea Farm Ventures and leading authority on Digital Transformation
- Magnus Scheving - Entrepreneur and Creator of LazyTown

This fantastic program of content has been designed specifically to inspire successful executives such as yourself, helping you to face the challenges of today's uncertain business environment.

In addition, this year's conference will feature increased networking opportunities that will allow you to meet with other like-minded executives. We will also be incorporating a space for entertainment as part of the event experience. This is something we all need at times, and which has been embraced by attendees of the World Business Forum in other countries.

Finally, I am excited to let you know about one more change for this year. We will be holding the Forum at a new emblematic venue - the Queen Elizabeth II Centre, located just opposite Westminster Abbey. We are sure that this wonderful space will allow for a truly inspirational experience.

I hope you are able to join us for this special edition - I am sure you will find it time well spent!

Yours sincerely,

Chris Stanley
Chief Knowledge Officer
